

Tudor Grange Samworth Academy

A Church of England School

30th January 2018

Dear Parents/Carers

I am writing to inform you of the wonderful news that Samworth Tudor Grange Academy has been awarded a Silver Primary Science Quality Mark Award. This is in recognition of the amazing science work done last year by both the pupils and staff. The award will soon be appearing on our school letterhead and the certificate has been placed by the entrance to Primary. Please feel free to take a look when you are next in the building.

To continue our wonderful work, we are setting up a science page under the Primary tab on the school's website. I would like to invite you to take a look with your child. On this page, there will be photos of some of the investigations and science events that have been going on recently in school. You will also find ideas of how to encourage and support your child with science at home.

To help launch this new page, I would like to invite parents and children to take 'science selfies' and send them in to be put on the website. These pictures just need to show your children with something that links to science. There are so many options for what you could do including just looking at some plants and animals, going down a slide, using a mechanical toy, cooking and so on. I have delivered an assembly to the pupils about this so they should have some other ideas of their own to share with you. It is supposed to be a fun way to encourage you to talk about science outside of school.

Please email the photos to: vcleaver@samworth.tgacademy.org.uk

I look forward to seeing all of your selfies!
